THRANE & THRANE APPOINTS STRATOS AS MASTER DISTRIBUTOR

Thrane & Thrane today announced they have entered into an agreement with Stratos on establishing Stratos as Master Distributor of Thrane & Thrane products.

Stratos is a leading global provider of advanced mobile and fixed-site remote communications solutions. Thrane & Thrane is the world's leading manufacturer of terminals and land earth stations for global mobile satellite and radio communication.

Under the agreement, Stratos will sell Thrane & Thrane's land mobile and maritime products to Stratos-appointed indirect sales channels, thus helping to bring those products to new vertical and geographic markets worldwide.

As part of its global distribution efforts, Stratos will place special emphasis on bringing Thrane & Thrane products to Latin America and Asia. Stratos will also use its vertical marketing expertise to extend penetration of Thrane & Thrane products to the emerging local media, first responder, financial services and telemedicine markets.

"This agreement demonstrates how our global reach can help leading manufacturers penetrate important new markets," said Stratos President and CEO Jim Parm. "It also proves that Stratos is dedicated to offering its channel partners a single source for airtime and the broadest selection of remote-communications products."

Thrane & Thrane President and CEO Lars Thrane said, "End users worldwide recognize how the Thrane & Thrane name has come to represent the highest level of quality and innovation. With this new agreement, focused on hardware and value-added services, we are confident that Stratos will use its global sales and support network to bring our outstanding product line to the greatest number of markets worldwide."
