THRANE & THRANE EXPANDS AERONAUTICAL SALES TEAM WITH APPOINTMENT OF RON WORLEY

Latest appointment further strengthens aeronautical sales team

Leading satellite communications equipment manufacturer, Thrane & Thrane welcomes a new addition to its aeronautical sales team with the appointment of Ron Worley as Regional Sales Manager for Aeronautical Products. Worley will have key responsibility for managing the AVIATOR product line within America's Eastern territory.

Worley joins Thrane & Thrane with a wealth of knowledge and understanding of the aviation industry, having gained 28 years experience working for major industry players in product support and program management as well as sales and business development. Worley's extensive career also includes over 20 years of military flying as a USAF C-130 command pilot, retiring from the Texas Air National Guard in 2005. Additionally, Worley is a qualified FAA Commercial Multi-Engine Instrument Pilot with SD-3, GIV and L-382 type ratings.

Speaking on Worley's appointment, Andy Beers, Director of Aeronautical Sales, Americas, said: "Ron Worley joins the sales team with extensive industry experience, having led a variety of high profile product and business development projects as well as being a pilot himself. The exceptional level of understanding of product applications demonstrated by Ron is imperative if we are to continue providing unmatched customer service and support. I am pleased to welcome Ron aboard as an asset to the team and feel confident that his experience will prove invaluable to Thrane & Thrane."

Thrane & Thrane manufactures a wide range of satellite communications products for the aeronautical market including its cutting-edge SwiftBroadband solutions, AVIATOR 200, AVIATOR 300, AVIATOR 350 and AVIATOR 700. For further information, please visit www.thrane.com.
